[Hvis FORINFRA:]

The following applies for this research infrastructure project:

The provisions set out in Article 8 clarify and modify the provisions of the General Terms and Conditions for R&D Projects and certain other provisions of the contract as follows:

The allocation for research infrastructure from the Research Council of Norway shall not be used to subsidise the commercial activities of the Project Owner or the partners.

The research infrastructure shall primarily be used in non-commercial activities. During the contract period (and a minimum of x years after project start-up), the research infrastructure shall be made accessible to any partners in the project as well as other relevant research groups/third parties, also in this case primarily for non-commercial activities. The facilities shall be made available at cost.

The research infrastructure may to some extent be used for commercial activities as well, but only on condition that these are closely affiliated with the primary activity, and only if this in no way detracts from said primary activity. Examples of commercial activity include the use of the infrastructure in connection with contract research assignments or hiring out of the infrastructure to companies. The rules governing state support provide more detailed information regarding the definitions of commercial and non-commercial activity. In the event the research infrastructure is made accessible for use in commercial activity, this is to be done in accordance with existing market conditions. If no market price exists, the conditions shall reflect the costs with the addition of a reasonable profit margin.

The Project Owner is required to include in the progress report information on the status of the following points as a supplement to the items stipulated for inclusion in other provisions of the contract:

- How the infrastructure is being implemented and made accessible to any partners and other relevant research groups/third parties.
- The purpose for which the infrastructure is being used (basic research, contract research, patient treatment, public management tasks, etc.).
- How the Project Owner will deal with continued operation and fulfil the national role after the conclusion of the contract period (alt.: once funding from the Research Council has ceased).

With regard to reports of the progression in the project's actual income and actual costs, the following information must be provided in separate attachments:

- Any own financing, specified as investment and/or operating costs.
- Other operating expenses specified as direct expenses, payroll costs, costs in connection with service agreements and costs for any necessary upgrades, etc.
- The way in which those whose salaries are covered by project funding are contributing to the establishment and operation of the research infrastructure.
- The fees charged by the Project Owner for use of the research infrastructure.

With regard to the use of research infrastructure for research involving the processing of large amounts of data (time series, registries, scientific collections, etc.), the progress report shall also show how the data generated are safeguarded through large-scale storage resources, data handling tools and dedicated point-to-point network connections for particularly demanding applications.

If the Project Owner appoints a steering group for the establishment and operation of the research infrastructure, the Research Council has the right to participate as an observer.

It is permissible for the establishment of the research infrastructure to be carried out at a faster pace than stipulated in the progress plan. In such cases the Project Owner must report this to the Research Council as a deviation to the progress plan. The Research Council will give its approval for this deviation, and will expedite disbursements in connection with received and approved invoices for the project accordingly.

The Project Owner is under obligation to cover the costs of the decommissioning of the research structure when it is no longer in use or must be dismantled for other reasons.

The Project Owner is not entitled to transfer, mortgage or in any other way convey the use of the research infrastructure outside of the provisions of this agreement without the prior written consent of the Research Council. (This provision shall apply for x years from project start-up).
